Neshama

Community support when it matters most

When someone in the community passes away, everyone wants to help — but coordinating that help shouldn't be another burden. Neshama brings everything together in one place, so families can grieve while their community takes care of the rest.

1 A memorial appears

Obituaries are gathered automatically from local Jewish funeral homes. Families don't need to do anything — the listing is already there.

2 Someone wants to help

A friend finds the listing and sees clear options: bring food, send something meaningful, or help prepare the home.

3 Meals get organized

In minutes, a friend sets up a meal schedule — dates, dietary needs, drop-off details. No account needed. Just a simple form.

4 The link goes out

Share the page on WhatsApp, email, or text. Friends click and sign up for a day. No login. No password.

5 The community responds

The meal calendar fills in. Everyone sees what's covered and what's still needed. No duplicates, no gaps, no group-text chaos.

6 Beyond the meals

Tributes on the memorial page. A yahrzeit reminder a year later. The connection doesn't end when shiva does.

🕯️

Obituary Feed

Toronto & Montreal funeral homes, searchable in one place

🍲

Meal Coordination

Families set up a page, volunteers sign up for specific days

💬

Tributes & Yahrzeit

Leave messages of comfort. Get a gentle reminder each year.

No accounts. No fees. Just community.

Neshama is free for every family, always. Built by two women in Toronto who believe that showing up for each other shouldn't be this hard.

neshama.ca

neshama.ca/demo

contact@neshama.ca

Erin Kofman & Jordana Mednick